

Rev. William P. Hickman

Among the countless victims of this cruel war, not many will be more deeply lamented than the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Bell Spring who fell in the fight with the Yankee raiders near Dublin while bravely defending his home against the invaders. Though past the military age, he had connected himself with the Home Guard of Pulaski county, and had on former occasions shown himself willing to take up arms in a cause to which he was ardently devoted.

During the hottest of the fight, being near one of the guns, and seeing the soldiers who supported it shot down, he rushed forward to take their place, and almost immediately fell, mortally wounded in the body. The last words he was heard to speak were "Do your best, boys, my work is ended!" — words worthy of a patriot, and Christian soldier.

No truer man, nor braver heart is left behind him. Falling into the hands of the enemy, and finding him in citizen's dress, they chose to consider and speak of him as "a bushwhacker" and it is supposed that he was brutally treated by them. He was left on the field in a dying condition for thirty-six hours without any attention

"Bushwhacker" was the Yankee name for Confederate guerrillas, or irregular non-uniformed troops, whose mission was to harass the Union Army behind its lines. The following is an excerpt from the memorial in the Presbytery minutes of June 2, 1865:

BATTLE OF CLOYD'S MOUNTAIN:
THE REV. MR. HICKMAN'S DEATH

"Bro Hickman fell fighting for civil and religious liberty at Cloyd's Farm on Monday, May 9, 1864. When the sound of cannon and the tramp of the enemies cavalry were heard approaching his humble home, threatening destruction, as well as the most cherished rights of humanity, he volunteered to join a company assigned to the duty of supporting a Brigade of Artillery; and it was while eagerly and bravely discharging this duty that he fell mortally wounded. After calling to his striking men (who had run to his relief) to never mind him, but to fill his place in the ranks. And after that men and others nearby had been overpowered by numbers and driven from the field, he was allowed by the enemy to remain that evening and all day Tuesday without adequate attention; and it was not until Wednesday the 11th that his spirit took flight. Kind female friends were permitted to sit by him and minister to his wants during Tuesday, but were driven from the place when night came and not permitted to sit and watch with him. On Wednesday morning he was taken to a neighboring home but died a few hours afterwards. He was calm and composed while thus lying in intense suffering and had no fear of death. He was born in Bath county, February 23, 1810. From 1842 was licensed to preach by Lexington Presbytery. As a preacher he was strong, clear and vigorous in thought and style."

whatever, and died immediately after being removed to a neighboring house.

He had, for a few months past, been in part supplying the church in Salem in the absence of its pastor as chaplain in the army and had greatly endeared himself to the people during his brief ministry. We deeply sympathize with his bereaved widow and children, and lament his loss not only as a dear friend, but as a gifted and devoted minister of the Gospel.

"Servant of God, well done!
Rest from thy hest employ;
The battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy.

The voice at midnight came —
He started up to hear:
A mortal arrow pierced his frame;
He fell, but felt no fear.

Tranquil amidst alarm,
It found him on the field,
A veteran slumbering on his arm,
Beneath his red-cross shield.

Soldier of Christ, well done!
Praise be thy new employ;
And while eternal ages roll,
Rest in thy Savior's joy!"
Salem, Va. May 20th. FJ

history. I already had many of Julian's letters written to his siblings, but we know there are more yet to be found.

So, I returned home with over 1,100 more old papers, deeds, letters, etc. and about two dozen old photos from the Hickmans and Lockbridges. Papers and photos that will eventually find their way into the three volume history.

However, the most exciting part of my trip was going to Pulaski County, Va., to find the final resting place of the Rev. William P. Hickman (1810-1864). He was a brother of my great-grandfather, the second Roger Hickman (1813-1889), and was also a brother of James Elliott Hickman (1804-1877) does anyone know when he died?? who is the ancestor of most of you living in West Virginia. I have 78 letters written by William P. Hickman to Roger Hickman from 1833 to 1860 but he was killed in battle in 1864 and I have lost track of his descendants.

Well, on Hickman Cemetery Road I found the Hickman Cemetery and the graves of William and his wife Margaret, four of their children and thirteen grandchildren. I am now trying to locate living descendants with the hope that someone may have saved some letters to Hickman from his brothers or sisters.

Descendants of William P. Hickman

By these names descendants the family tree grows

Another collection of old papers came to light this year when Kent and Scotty Rose managed to open an old roll-top desk that had been jammed shut since their family moved from Black Creek in 1941. In it they found two tin boxes containing old deeds and a number of old ledgers dating from the 1880's to the 1930's. More wonderful stuff to add to the history of the Hickmans of Black Creek.

Here in Richmond my cousin Neva Hickman Strong found two cardboard boxes full of old papers belonging to her father Julian K. Hickman (1911-1964) who had been a month's attorney of Bath County, a federal judge in Harrisonburg, Va., and a perpetual candidate for office as a republican when there were no republicans in [?] spent nearly a week in Richmond sorting those papers and putting them in binders and new file boxes so that they can go into the third volume of the family

The people in the next photo are the children and grandchildren of Lanty William Hickman (1838-1906), the oldest brother of my grandfather and a Civil War cavalryman.
 Ed and I have lost track of the descendants of the Hickmans in this photo. Does anyone know what happened to them or their children?

The Hickmans have a long association with the town of Cass, W.Va., and with the two lumber companies that used to own it. So, I went to Cass to see if I could locate the home of Robert Sidney Hickman (1872-1954). He was a brother of my grandfather and Marian's grandmother, and I have a photo of the house with which I could locate the lot, but the house is gone. Robert S. Hickman was the manager of the huge company store in Cass, known as the Pocahontas Supply Company, from about 1900 to about 1945, and the store building is still there, but used now for tourist shops, a cafe, and a museum.

Uncle Robert's Packard. Julia M. Hickman, James D. Hoge, Mattie Grey Rose Hoge, George W. Rose, Lula G. Hickman Rose, Lou Grey Hoge, George Hoge, Marian Hoge, Robert S. Hickman. About 1925.

Further up the hill, above where "Uncle Robert" lived, is the house where Frank Edwin Mower lived when he owned the town of Cass, the company store, the sawmill, and the railroad. His mother was a Hickman and he was the uncle of Ed Brown who was at the reunion with us in Lost Creek, W.Va. The remainder of the former Mower Lumber Co. property is now a state park. Ed's grandmother, Mattie Lockridge Hickman Mower, I knew as "Cousin Lockie" when she lived across the street from my uncle Fred Gabriel in Waynesboro, Va.

Ed has shared with me a large collection of old letters and photos saved by his grandmothers and mother dating from the 1870's to the 1960's—including some from his uncles telling how they started the Mower Lumber Company.

On June 20 I attended the funeral of Emma Sue Hepler Smiler (1903-1995) at the Woodland Union Church near Millsboro Springs in Bath County. Her grandmother was Matilda Margaret Hickman (1854-1938), a sister of my grandfather. I like several of her sisters. Emma Sue was a school teacher. She was also the Hepler family historian and I was fortunate to have spent a day with her last year copying some of her records and photos, and tape recording her stories. The old-timers are slipping away and I wish that I had started this project 10 or 20 years earlier when there were more people alive to tell the stories about those who wrote the many letters I have dating from the 1770's to the 1970's.

While in Bath County I visited with Emma Sue's brother and sister, and a niece and nephew and got some family data that she had not given me the year before.

I also spent one afternoon in the Bath County Courthouse copying some more info from the will books.

Joining us at the homesite picnic was Georgie Roberta Grace Hickman Gibson, who was the only child of George Roger Hickman (1880-1912), the youngest brother of my grandfather.

George Roger Hickman about 1912

Kent and Scotty Rose, and their nephew Sam Howell, have recently purchased three properties on Back Creek just below the old family homestead and Kent and I stayed in Scotty's place for the rest of the week while we visited other relatives in Bath County. Marian and Lou Grey visited with Georgie Gibson in Covington for a week or two. We all happened to arrive at the Bath County Historical Society on the same day and gave the ladies there a hilarious summary of life on Back Creek in the 1920's, 30's, and 40's.

Kent and I went to talk with the Virginia Power people about placing a historical marker on the Company property at the site of the old Hickman homestead. The next week I got a letter saying that Virginia Power was agreeable to the proposal and that they would pay for the installation, but that I would have to pay for the marker itself. I then met with them again and we picked a site and a general design for the marker. Now I have to contact the companies who make historic markers, and the State of Virginia sent me a list of those supplying bronze or aluminum markers. Virginia Power came up with a list of companies supplying stone markers.

Less than half of you returned the "interest" questionnaire from the last newsletter, so if anyone else is interested in helping pay for this, please let me know.

While in Warm Springs, I met Brenda Hickman from Gassaway, W.Va., and her cousin Grace Custer Ebner, from Peachtree City, Ga., who were in there digging up old Hickmans. We told them how to find the Sively cemetery where our ancestors are buried and I shared some of my data with them. I have heard twice since from Grace.

Jessie, and their son Rodney who had responded to one of my mail requests last year. Jim & Jessie had, some years ago, added to the work begun by Marian Hoge MacKenzie as a start on a history of the Hickmans.

Marian, who was born on Back Creek in the ancestral home, and whose grandmother, Lula Hickman Rose (1874-1943), was a sister of my grandfather, Peter L. Hickman (1858-1937), came from Seattle, Wash., for this reunion. She had a wonderful time meeting all the "cousins" and we all owe her a debt of gratitude for beginning the collection of Hickman family stories over 20 years ago. She has been my biggest helper, critic, and booster on the larger effort I am engaged in now.

On June 18, a flock of us Hickmans who had once lived on Back Creek in Bath County, Va., met at the site of the original Hickman homestead. We had a picnic lunch, took photos of everyone under the trees planted by either William Hickman (1770-1843), or his son Roger (1813-1889), and caught up on happenings of the many years since we last were together. Present (with various spouses and children) were Marian Hoge MacKenzie and her sister Lou Grey Hoge Keeter, both of whom were born in the house built in 1799; Kent Rose and his sister Shirley Rose Powell who were born in the home of their parents about half a mile up the creek, and their brother Scotty Rose who was born after the family left Back Creek. My brother and I had lived in the next house up Back Creek —built by our grandfather in 1902.

We discussed possible locations for one or two historical markers concerning the Hickmans on Back Creek. Then Marian led an "expedition" into the woods to visit the slave graveyard that is all grown over with trees now. We did find 17 graves, mostly marked with field stones, but two still had carved stones. One of those marked the grave of Martha M. Robinson (1846-1923) a white woman who was the wife of John Anson Robinson who had been born a slave on June 4, 1858, and grew up on the farm with my grandfather who had been born four months earlier. Martha died in her home, known later as "the John house," down the road from grandfather's house on March 5, 1923. My mother and uncle remembered sitting up all night with her body as people did in those days.

Two other cemeteries along Back Creek contain the Hickman graves but we did not visit them this time.

Dear Hickman cousins:

In June I made another "collecting trip" to Virginia and West Virginia — collecting cousins, ancestors, old documents and old photos for the three volume history of the Hickmans of Back Creek, W.Va. and we went to the home of Mary Jane Hickman DuVault for me in Morgantown, W.Va. and we went to the home of Mary Jane Hickman DuVault for supper with her family. Among other things, she had some old photos to share, one of which is a gem showing three generations of her Hickman ancestors.

Three generations of descendants of James Elliott Hickman and Elizabeth E. Hamilton, about 1908

At center right are James William Hickman (1834-1908) & Mary Ann Stanley (1838-1915), both born on Back Cr. Standing second from left is their son Lamy Stuart Hickman (1872-1955) and next to him is his brother Ed and Grace Hickman (1874-1948). Seated at the far right is their sister Ella Susan Hickman (1877-1972) and behind her is her husband Isaac Hunt (2-1918). Ed is holding Jessie (2-?) and Ollie O. Hunt (1903-1963), wife of Guy Herbert Hickman (1903-?) son of Lamy Stuart and Grace Hickman. The woman standing at far left is Minnie Rydell and her daughter is standing between Lamy and Ed. The other three adults standing behind James are unidentified.

Can anyone fill in the dates for births and deaths where I have the ??

Does anyone have a photo of James Elliott Hickman and/or Elizabeth E. Hamilton?

(On June 17 we were joined by Ed & Yaro Brown (from Green Village, N.J.) and we all followed the DuVaults down the road to a big Hickman reunion on the farm of John Weisberg. Hickman great Last Creek, W.Va. That was a wonderful experience, with several of Hickman great Last Creek, W.Va. I had not met, lots of good food, and plenty of good talk. I thought there ought to be a reunion to identify almost everyone in the photo I had copied the night before at Mary Jane's house. Among those I met were James Clinton Hickman, his wife

Dear Sirs:

I am a son of Ruth G. Hickman of Bath County, Va. The Hickmans came to Virginia in the 1600's and some of them settled on Back Creek, in what is now Bath Co., in the mid-1700's. A brother of those Hickmans, Suddeth Hickman, settled further west to what would be, I think, Clarke County. Children and grandchildren of the Back Creek Hickmans moved on to Pocahontas, Greenbrier, Nicholas, Upshur, Braxton, Clay, and Harrison counties between 1832 and 1860.

I have inherited a 200 year accumulation of the letters, warrants, ledgers, wills, deeds, and other papers saved by my mother, grandfather, and great-grandfather. A partial inventory of some of the older papers is enclosed for your information, and I have highlighted the names of counties now in West Virginia. I hope to find a proper home in Virginia for all these papers when I am done with them.

Also enclosed is a sampling of the pages from the first volume of a three-volume history that I am compiling about the Hickmans of Back Creek. Again, I have highlighted names of counties in your state. While none of the Hickmans who went to West Virginia were my ancestors, they were relatives, and they wrote letters to my ancestors. Therefore, I would like to find out more about them to fill out the history of the family, and to add to the sketchy information in the letters.

Even though I have an 20 page outline "family tree" of the descendants of Arthur Hickman (1712-1779) that goes to the 9th generation, I have lost track of the descendants, and history, of some of the older Hickmans who moved to West Virginia. In fact, there is no correspondence from those folks after the beginning of the Civil War

I do know a bit about two or three of the later migrants after 1900. Robert Sidney Hickman (1872-1954), brother of my grandfather, was—for many years—the manager of the company store at Cass when it was owned by Westvaco and later by the Mower Lumber Co. The two owners of the Mower Lumber Co. were grand-nephews of my grandfather—the grandsons of his brother, Lanty William Hickman (1838-1906)—and I have gathered copies of many of their letters written to their mother in Virginia.

My grandfather married a Lockridge, and my great-grandfather also married a Lockridge from Pocahontas County, so I have another large family connection there. However, I have few letters from the Lockridges and have not spent much time with their history.

Rather than asking for specific information at this time, I will ask some general questions and hope that your answers may help to focus my search.

However, I still had no information about his two surviving sons. Then, by great fortune and the help of Connie Metheny at the Bath County Historical Society, George K. Cordery called from North Carolina to say that he was a descendant of one of William's sons who had gone to Nebraska in the 1870's. The family left Nebraska for Oregon to escape the Dust Bowl crisis in the 1930's. I am now eagerly awaiting a package of information from Mr. Cordery.

I am still hoping to find photos of William and his family, and —most of all— letters written to him by his siblings between 1840 and 1864.

The Hickman family tree grows each month as the word gets around, and as I hear from new people.

However, what I am really looking for is letters, diaries, and other documents that tell of life and times of our ancestors. I already have a wonderful collection of such things saved by Roger Hickman (1813-1889), Peter L. Hickman (1858-1937), and others and they are the basis for my three volume history of the Hickmans of Back Creek. It seems to me that if my Hickman great-grandfather and grandfather saved papers, so must some other Hickman. Those papers are tucked away somewhere just waiting to be discovered.

Since sending the last newsletter I have been away from home on three trips for a total of about ten weeks. In each instance I visited Hickmans, looked at old papers and photos, heard family stories, and enjoyed the company of interesting folks. I am looking forward to meeting more "cousins" in the coming months.

Bill Gabriel

words in those pages were several references like "letters written to my great-grandmother Rebecca Walker Hickman," and "we have many old letters written from the period of 1840 through 1870 to Rebecca Hickman."

How I long to see those letters! There are bound to be items that will add to the history of the Hickmans of Back Creek.

My ongoing search for information about the Rev. William P. Hickman and his descendants is still benefiting from the contributions of others who have volunteered to help. The Rev. Joe McCoy sent me copies of two photos of the original Bell Spring Presbyterian Church building, one showing a surrey and a buggy next to the church.

I also heard from the Rev. Michael G. Wingard of the Wytheville Presbyterian Church who sent copies of some of the church session minutes and other bits of information about William Hickman's service there.

Brenda A. Findley, librarian in the Virginia Room of the Roanoke City Public Library, sent some Pulaski County marriage records containing data on the children and grandchildren of William P. Hickman, and also copies of U.S. Census records from 1880 to 1910 containing the Brown and Chumbley families. Those data helped to extend my knowledge of the descendants of William's daughters as follows:

4. William P. Hickman (23/IV/1810-9/V/1864) married 18/VII/1843 to Margaret R. Hoge (12/IX/1821-2/III/1904)
5. Elizabeth "Lizzie" "Eliza" Jane Hickman (1844-7/IX/1872) married 26/II/1870 to Edward J. Huff (1846-19/II/1871)
6. Edward L. Huff (c.1870-?) married 25/XII/1894 to Jennie E. Fix (?-?) in Augusta Co.
7. Isaac (Isaac?) F. Huff (2/IX/1896-?)
7. Lelia B. Huff (7/II/1897-?)
5. Mary Crockett Hickman (29/VIII/1846-29/IV/1917) married ca.1866 to William A. Chumbley (22/X/1841-22/II/1917)
6. William Harper Chumbley (6/VII/1867-10/V/1927)
6. Edgar Chumbley (?-?)
6. Susie Chumbley (?-?)
6. Emma S. Chumbley (c.1873-?) married 15/II/1898 to George E. Webb (c.1875-?)
6. Elizabeth Bessie Chumbley (IX/1874-?)
6. Frederick Chumbley (3/X/1877) [1874?-1947]
6. Mary C. Chumbley (2/X/1881-?) married 23/XI/1908 to Jesse McC. Miller (c.1884-?) [census of 1900 says Mary & Maggie both born in Nebraska]
6. Margaret R. "Maggie" Chumbley (2/X/1881-?) married 17/VI/1907 to W. J. Lucas (c.1876-?) [Pulaski Co. marriage record says she was born in Nebraska]
6. Joseph H. (James?) Chumbley (1/VIII/1885-1947)
6. Clemence V. "Clem" Chumbley (3/XII/1887-?) married 17/V/1916 to George N. Stone (c.1891-?)
5. Myrtle W. Chumbley (26/II/1890-27/V/1971)
5. James Brown Hickman (18/XI/1848-?) [lived with his sister, Kate Lyle Brown, at 1880 census]
5. Emily Susan (Emma Sue) Hickman (3/XI/1850-29/I/1862)
5. William White Hickman (31/XII/1852-9/XI/1854) 22 months and 14 days old according to letter from Wm.
5. John Hoge Hickman (9/II/1855-?)
5. Kate Lyle Hickman (27/XII/1856-13/IV/1918) married 25/X/1876 to John M. Brown (6/XI/1851-5/II/1917) [Margaret R. Hickman lived with them at 1880 census]
6. Percy Lynn Brown (30/II/1878-3/V/1884)
6. Percy Lyle Brown (30/II/1878-8/V/1884)
6. Mary Brown (1/XI/1879-?)
6. Myrtle Reid Brown (3/IX/1881-8/V/1884)
6. Roy M. Brown (23/V/1883-13/IV/1924)
6. Benjamin W. Brown (1/XI/1884-?)
6. John Richard Brown (3/VIII/1884-21/III/1948) ??
6. Lucile H. "Lucy" Brown (IX/1888-?) married 10/XI/1913 to Robert Cartwright (c.1887-?)
6. Kate Hickman Brown (1/IV/1891-1/XII/1891)
6. Florence H. Brown (1/XI/1892) ??
6. Margaret Jane "Maggie" Brown (16/XI/1920 to James William Bishop (c.1886-?)
6. Annemarie Ruth Brown (1/V/1894) ?? married 20/VIII/1923 to James A. Allison (c.1895-?)
6. In Alice Adair Brown (19/X/1896) ?? married 14/XI/1919 to Claude A. Prillman (c.1894-?)
6. Lelia Lavery Hickman (6/XII/1898-?) married 10/VII/1878 to Charles R. Timine (c.1851-?)
6. Margaret R. Hickman (ca.1866) ?? married 10/VII/1879 to William N. Gilliam (c.1858-?)

Hickmans of Back Creek

Ella Cox was interested to see that I had knowledge of the marriage of one of the sons of Andrew J. Hickman—as bylaw—and she was able to add generation 6 and 7 to the story

4. Andrew Johnson Hickman (20/XI/1811-24/XI/1880) married 20/XI/1834 to Delilah S. Armentrout (1. 27/II/1837) married 7/XI/1837 to Nancy Wallace (1813-?)
5. Andrew A. Hickman (1847-18/XI/1883?) married 1875 to Nancy Wallace (ca1858-?)
6. Homer Fitzwater (1875-) raised by his mother as a Fitzwater
7. daughter

It seems that Amanda was the sister of Ella's grandfather. Her family never knew that she had married Andrew A. Hickman and she raised her son as a Fitzwater. Ella discovered the marriage certificate for Andrew and Amanda at the Nicholas Co. court house in 1991. Now the question is, why did Amanda keep the marriage a secret from her family, and why did her son not have the Hickman name?

Amanda married twice more and had several other children, one of which is shown with her in the next photo. Her son Homer's family lived on the next-door farm to Ella's family and it sounds like Ella will have some good stories to tell. She did a delightful, handwritten, history and genealogy for her son several years ago.

Amanda Fitzwater (ca. 1858-?) wife of Andrew A. Hickman (1847-1883?) seated, with granddaughter Beulah on lap. Daughter Mollie standing.

I am still "desperately searching" for information about the descendants of Arthur Hickman (1803-1884) & Rebecca Walker (1806-1879) who moved to what is now West Virginia in 1848 and his brother Andrew J. Hickman (1811-1880) & Nancy Wallace (1813-?) who left Back Creek in 1834. Gloria A. Barnette, Nicholas Co. Historical Society, was able to send a bit about each of those "lost" Hickmans to me.

But, I finally hit paydirt when Helen Squires Bloomquist, from North Carolina, sent me a copy of some material her mother had collected over ten years ago. She is descended from Arthur Hickman (1803-1884) and his daughter, Mary Matilda Hickman (1832-1912), and could add many names and dates to generations 6 and 7. She also has old photos of Mary Matilda Hickman and her husband Lewis P. McElwain (1932-1911). However, the most interesting

In January a nice bundle of materials sent from Florida caught up with me while I was in Texas visiting other Hickmans. The package was from Ella Fitzwater Cox, yet another descendant of James Elliott Hickman. However, since her great-grandfather was Stuart Taylor Hickman (1833-1903), and her grandfather was Watson Reed Hickman (1866-1947), she added dozens and dozens of names and dates to my list of the descendants of Elliott and Betsey Hickman, but the additions are too extensive to list here. I can print a couple of her photos.

Goes 175 Miles to Award Diploma to Girl Graduate

STAUNTON, Va., July 30.—M.L. Combs of Richmond, supervisor of the research division of the Virginia state board of education, traveled 176 miles to address a graduating class composed of one person. The exercises were held at Millboro, 40 miles west of Staunton in Bath county, where Miss Ruth Hickman, the lone graduate, received her diploma. This was the first time in the history of Millboro High school that there was only one graduate. Had the graduating class of 1927 been duly organized, Miss Hickman would have been its president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, as well as sergeant at arms.

Ruth was born the year the Model-T was put into production, and she graduated from high school the year Ford ceased making that durable automobile. The ones she drove her father bought from his nephew, Forrest Franklin Hepler (1894-1934), who had the first Ford dealership in Bath County.

A couple months ago I got a call from Helen Traugh, Braxton County Historical Society, who told me that one of the people in a photo printed in an earlier newsletters was still alive. If you look at the first page of the Hickman Family History Newsletter dated July 26, 1995, you will see a group photo of three generations of descendants of James Elliott Hickman and Betsey Hamilton. The caption contained many ?-? entries because I did not know the dates for those people pictured. The little girl in the photo, Jessie Iva Hunt, was able to furnish the following dates for her father, brothers, and cousin:

Isaac Newton Hunt (1877-1918)
Fred O. Hunt (1902-1982)
Jessie Iva Hunt Robinson (1904-)
Ohlen Hunt (1906-1974)
Guy Herbert Hickman (1903-1995)

I appreciate the help of Mrs. Traugh in sending Jessie's information to me

Grace Custer Ebnetter, in Georgia, sent photos of her great-grandfather, Hamilton Burton Hickman (1857-1926), her grandfather, Russell Murray Hickman (1895-1954), and others, as well as some letters written by Russell Murray Hickman during his service in the army in W.W.I.

Then I heard from Brenda Hickman, in West Virginia, who is also a great-granddaughter of Hamilton Burton Hickman. She sent copies of photos, obituaries, newspaper clippings, etc. Using the data from Grace and Brenda, I could extend my knowledge of the descendants of James Elliott Hickman and Betsey Hamilton as follows:

Hickmans of Back Creek

4. James Elliott Hickman (18/XI/1804-1885?) married 1830 to Elizabeth E. "Betsey" Hamilton (1812-ca.1857)
5. Hamilton Burton Hickman (3/V/1857-16/III/1926) married 29/XI/1875 to Sarah Jane Young (12/X/1859-30/XII/1951)

6. Viola May Hickman (?/III/1887-?) married (?) to Newman L. Wilson (?-?)
6. George Earl Hickman (?/XII/1890-1/II/1962)
6. Willard Branty Hickman (12/X/1893-13/V/1969) married 26/VII/1923 to Rebecca Dodrill (?-?)
6. Russell Murray Hickman (25/VIII/1895-6/X/1954) married 1918 to Hazel May Childress (1899-1972)
7. Maxine Delores Hickman (2/VII/1919-17/II/1947) married 1936 to George H. Custer Jr. (1911-1988)
8. Evadna Grace Custer (17/III/1937-) married 1957 to Stewart Dwight Ebner (10/X/1933-)
6. Elliott Harling Hickman (11/XII/1897-20/V/1941) married (?) to Norma ??
6. Lavaun (Lavin) Hickman (ca. 1904-?) married (?) to Charley Bowling (?-?)
6. possibly as many as three who died in infancy, unnamed, in 1883, 1893, 1899

Hamilton Burton Hickman was the last child of Elliott and Betsey Hickman and his mother may have died the year he was born. I wonder if she died in child-birth? There are still some unknown dates, marked by ?-?, and even several unnamed children on this list. Any help in filling in those data will be appreciated.

RESIDENT OF THE MONTH

Mrs. Ruth Hickman Gabriel Hardy was born on Back Creek in Bath County, Virginia on January 16, 1908. She was one of seven children born to Ollie and Peter Hickman. Mrs. Hardy attended one-room schools in Bath County until she reached high school level. At that time, in order for her to attend high school, Ruth moved to Millboro. There she lived with her two youngest brothers in a small rented house and did the cooking, cleaning and chauffeuring. She drove the family Model-T Ford.

Mrs. Hardy has two sons by her first husband. During the 1940's, Ruth found the need to work and became a pioneer woman in the man's field of insurance. She became quite well known both in Richmond and across the state. She later became an officer in the firm of Muhleman & Kayhoe, builders of commercial and residential buildings. Following retirement, Ruth found new love and married the late Edward Ira Hardy.

One of Ruth's fondest memories was of being the sole graduate of Millboro High in 1927. Her graduation made the newspapers from coast to coast because M. L. Combs of Richmond, the supervisor of the research Hospital in 1924. She followed that with pediatric studies at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg. She received her public health nursing certification through the Richmond Professional Institute—now Virginia Commonwealth University.

Ollie Virginia Hickman married Warren Maxwell Campbell in 1927, the same year she graduated from the St. Elizabeth's School of Nursing. He was a "local boy" from the upper reaches of Back Creek in Highland County who was working for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad in Richmond. Virginia's grandmother had been a Campbell, and the newly weds were distant cousins—not at all unusual in that time and place. Warren was a veteran of W.W.I service in France and was nine years her senior.

She began her nursing career with the Instructive Visiting Nurses Association (IVNA), a forerunner in home health care whose nurses were sometimes referred to as the "newspaper nurses" for their habit of covering almost all surfaces near a sick-bed with newspaper. Virge later became the supervisor of nursing for IVNA, and in 1938 she moved to the Richmond city health department as a staff nurse. In 1940 she was named director of public health nursing for the Richmond department of public welfare.

About 1940 when she was Director of Public Health Nursing

Virginia H. Campbell was a well known person around Richmond, and Virginia, with her name and photo in the Richmond papers frequently from the 1930's through the 1950's. She had a self-assured bearing and a take-charge attitude and was an accomplished public speaker who enjoyed meeting new people and seeing new places. Her ability to get along well with persons of all classes and colors must have been an important aspect of her success as a public health nurse.

After leaving the Richmond City employment in a political dispute she served as the executive secretary of the Virginia State Nurses Association until 1959 when she joined her husband Warren in retirement.

My mother, brother, and I lived for four years during WWII in the attic of the Campbell home in Richmond. During that time Virge became one of my favorite, and "most unforgettable" people, who I always knew as "Tanta".

Like so many of the Hickmans, my "Tanta" suffered from arthritis and she became shorter and more bent over as she aged. But she never lost that cheerful clun-up attitude and

Dear Hickman cousins:

In January I made another trip to Virginia, this time for the funeral of my aunt, Ollie Virginia Hickman, who was born in a log cabin on the east side of Back Creek in Bath County in 1902, and who died in a modern nursing home, but in the company of her nieces, in Richmond in 1996.

The third of seven children born to Ollie Gertrude Lockridge and Peter Lightner Hickman, hers was the fourth generation of Hickmans born at what they called Sun Rise. Her father was a farmer, a justice of the county court, and a ruling elder in the Presbyterian church and her mother was the Sun Rise postmaster. There was no electricity or running water in their house, and her mother worked hard to feed the family with home-grown food cooked on a huge wood-fired range.

Forrest Elwood Hickman, Ollie Virginia Hickman, Roger Lockridge Hickman
In 1904 when they were about five, two, and seven years old. Forrest was born in a log cabin at Green Valley, Virge in a log cabin on Back Creek, and Roger in a home in Columbus, Ohio.

Schooling was a catch-as-catch-can sort of thing for the families living along Back Creek. Classes were held in abandoned houses, chicken coops, barns, churches, or anywhere else that could accommodate eight to fifteen kids for a few months. School locations shifted up and down the valley as the student population waxed and waned. Anyone aspiring to a higher education was obliged to leave the valley and board with relatives or friends in Warm Springs, Monterey, Millboro, or elsewhere while attending high school.

Virginia went north to Monterey in Highland County to finish her public school education, and graduated from high school in 1922 when she was 20 years old.

Papa Hickman's desire was for his daughter to become a school teacher, but she wanted to be a nurse. So, to keep peace in the family, and to satisfy her father's wishes, Virge traveled a round the mountains to Hannenburg in the Shenandoah Valley where she got a teacher's certificate at the Virginia Normal School — now called James Madison University — and went on to teach at least for one year at Cedar Creek in Bath County.

With her heart still set on becoming a nurse, Virge left her father's mountains and went east to the hospitals of Richmond to enroll in the first nursing school class at St. Elizabeth's Marston H. Miller in 1918 and they raised four children in California. Both of them were occasionally away from their own children and my aunt and they visited them several times in Virginia. Some of the best stories I have, though, are about their grandfather who was, in my opinion, at least, eccentric and were told to me by several of his nieces and nephews.

Each generation of Hickmans seemed to have a "family character" about them. There were many stories to tell. In my great-grandfather's generation that was Cousin Polly, in brother, Koger Lockridge Hickman, for the "character" about whom everyone had an outrageous story or two. The jury is still out on the identity of the nominee from my own generation.

Hickman bought two published histories of Julian while he was there and sent them to me, and one contained a summary by the California Division of Mines of the estimated total gold produced in 63 years of mining at the Julian-Banner-Cuyamaca region. It listed the Gold King and Gold King mines—those located by Joe Hamilton and friends—as producing less than $25,000 in gold each. At that rate, the partners made a pretty good deal when they sold their claims.

That same history tells of Chester Gunn who established a "pony express" mail service between San Diego and Julian in 1871. He then became the first postmaster of the new Julian post office (at $1.00 per month), and a bit later the Julian agent for Wells Fargo. From 1889 on he served two terms as a county supervisor. He was the father of Charles Kathew Gunn (1884-?) who married Mary Brown Hickman in 1908, but what she remembered of him was his apple orchards. Brownie claimed that her father-in-law was the "Johnny Appleseed" of the region—one that is still well known for its apples.

My second correspondent was George C. Bond (1920-), in Pasadena, California, who sent three pages from the family bible of his great-grandmother, Hulda Shalum Hickman, containing information to correct the dates I had for Hulda and her husband (see page 9 and photo on page 10 of the October 30 newsletter) as follows:

Hulda Shalum Hickman (5/1X/1806-6/1/1893)
Isaac Callison (6/VIII/1804-28/X/1880)

However, in some instances the handwritten bible entries had been written over so that it is hard to decipher the date intended by the recorder. In Hulda's case the year of her death could have been 1883, 1888, 1893, or 1898. Then a month or so later I heard from George that his cousin in Iowa had seen Hulda's tombstone in Manning, Iowa, and that it gives her date of death as October 6, 1888, not October 26, 1880 as I had heard earlier. I guess this is a lesson in both interpreting handwriting and in checking dates, but now we have the family bible saying Hulda died in January and the gravestone saying October. This is not unusual, and it is hard to decide which date is accurate.

Shirley "Chickell" Frey Morris, whose ancestors were Lockridges and Campbells, did a wonderful job of review and criticism on the latest draft edition of Back Creek. Because she has done a great deal of research on her ancestors, and because she also has inherited a nice collection of Lockridge letters, she was able to identify many of the persons mentioned in my old Hickman letters, and illuminate some of their other references. In her research, Chickell has gathered information about many families, businesses, and activities in Bath, Highland, Pocahontas, and other counties and it is the integration of that variety of information that adds up to knowledge and makes the stories interesting. She is joining Clare Hickman (1905-) and Marian Hoge Mackenzie (1920-) among my most valuable sources of info about days of yore. Chickell and other reviewers asked for a photo and some more information about George Bond's father, George Clair Bond (1894-1966), because of a story about him that was part of a long contribution by Jim Stockdale (1923-). So, George loaned me six photos to copy and send copies of some clippings and letters about his father and his grandmother, Linda Ann Callison Bond (1850-1933). He also sent the following story:

THE STORY OF MY FATHER, THE WORLD WAR I PILOT, WHO FLEW THE FIRST AIRPLANE EVER SEEN BY THE RESIDENTS OF ABINGDON, ILLINOIS
By George Cline Bond

My father, George Clair Bond, was the first Bond to become a military pilot, and became a local celebrity during World War I by flying to Abingdon in the first airplane which any of the residents there had seen. It was the highlight event of the summer of 1918. (My brother, Bob, was the second Bond to become a pilot and flew in the Pacific during World War II.)

Dad had gone to Chicago in July to enlist as a flying cadet in what was then called the Army Aviation Section Regiment. His enlistment was "for the period of the emergency." He was 23 years old and gave his vocation as "farmer."

He was first sent to ground school and then to flight training at Selfridge Field at Mount Clemens, Michigan. In November of that year he sent a letter to his parents thanking them for a package of warm clothes they had sent to him and wrote:

"At first we had our evenings free, but now we have a class in wireless telegraphy each evening after supper, and I understand they are going to start a class in French. We only fly on mornings so far, and have engine, shop and repair work and machine gun range of afternoons."

"I am just beginning to realize some result of my efforts in flying class. A beginner, learning to fly, sure has some ups and downs in more ways than one. Many is the time my instructor has taken the occasion to tell me how rotten I was, and then day before yesterday he turns me loose to go up alone — the first one in his class. I did well enough to please him, and yesterday I was up alone again and made five nice landings. I begin to get the feel of handling the machine now and it is a great satisfaction to go up alone, and feel you are quite a driving the ship."

The Selfridge Field was closed shortly thereafter and Dad was sent to Gerstner Field in Lake Charles, Louisiana, where in February 1918 he received an honorable discharge from the United States Army "by reason of acceptance of a commission as Second Lieutenant."

After about six months in Louisiana he was transferred to Scott Field in Belleville, Illinois as an instructor. One week and the publisher of The Abingdon Advertiser, his hometown newspaper, had been in the States with another Abingdon businessman and had made a trip to Scott Field to see Dad. Here they met the commandant of the field. He was congenial, and pointed out to Dad and his friend Sam Varborough. He said that Dad was the safest and best instructor at the post and that Varborough was the best stunt man. It also seemed that the commandant was formerly a country newspaper publisher so he was a natural. Dad and Varborough made a trip to Abingdon in an army plane. Dad had to make a good landing of the plane in charge of flying.

Hickmans of Back Creek

the dump when along came a begoggled expert and purchased the mines for an English Syndicate for $25,000.00.

The syndicate sent out a pair of 'Spats and Monocles' to open up the mines. Mister 'Spats and Monocles' built a shed for his horse, a boarding house for the workmen and promptly installed a cook. A quartz mill was in time erected. Then the ore on the dump was put through the mill and the gold went over the plates along with the tailings. Instead of declaring a dividend with the first cleanup, the mine was declared 'the bunk.' The mill shut down and a wire was sent back to the Syndicate for money on which to get home.

In the meantime J. E. Hamilton took his cut from the sale of the mine, went back to Virginia, married his old sweetheart, Virginia. He returned to Julian with his bride and continued his ranch operations until his death some years later, leaving his widow and a host of friends to mourn his loss. His widow passed away in 1933 after living with her nieces, Mary Gunn, Theola Parsons, and Sallie Miller since her husband's death."

If Joe had a one-third interest in the mine, then he must have gotten $8,333 and, if gold was worth $16 an ounce in 1889 and worth $350 an ounce now, he had made the equivalent of about $182,280 in today's funds in his mining venture. So, Joseph E. Hamilton returned to Back Creek as a wealthy man when he came to claim the hand of Virginia A. Hickman.

The three nieces mentioned were three of the four oldest daughters of Thomas Brown Hickman (1849-1928), a younger brother of Virginia Alice Hickman. He married Mary W. Payne (1846-1898) in 1881 and they had four daughters. Mary died in 1898 when the girls were 8, 11, 13, and 15. In 1901 Tom Hickman took Mary Kate Whitmore (1883-?) as his second wife and they had three more children. The second wife was the same age as his oldest daughter and there must have been some conflict in the home because all four of the girls went to California to live with their aunt.

First, my brother, Henmar, was in southern California in May and he went out of his way to visit the town of Julian to see what he could learn of Virginia and Joseph Hamilton. I had described how Virginia Alice Hickman (1848-1933) waited over twenty years on Back Creek for her sweetheart to return from California, marry her, and take her to him to the little mining town of Julian (see page 3 and photo on page 4 of that newsletter).

The Julian Pioneer Museum provided an unpublished history containing the following account of Joe and Jennie coming to that area:

"Joseph E. Hamilton ... came to Julian in the seventies and settled on a ranch a few miles out of town and engaged in farming with a few cattle on the side. He was a bachelor but could be counted on in any social function.

Along about 1889, Hamilton, Eh Fectet, and Bob McIntosh went on a prospecting tour, locating the Gold King and Queen Mines, six miles south of Julian. The quartz lead was narrow but the ore showed sufficient value to warrant development and the boys went to work, sinking a shaft on the property. They had been at work a short time and had some time out on

All writers and editors like to get mail indicating that people are reading the product, so I was delighted to receive a couple of responses to the newsletter of October 30, 1995.

only the following statistics:

The highest priority for my search now will be for the descendants of Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880). I have nine letters that he wrote "home" to Roger Hickman (1813-1887), farms, in Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties before settling down in Nicholas County. He had two wives and nine children, but I have lost track of his descendants and am left with contributions to that line will be appreciated.

So, I have now heard from three people with knowledge of the descendants of Andrew Hickman, and I am gradually filling in the twigs on that limb of the Hickman tree. Any other and some of the children. I am looking forward to hearing more from you.

Hickman and his daughter Martha J. Hickman (1836-1901) who married Andrew Jackson McFadden (1836-1901) made from marriage, of Martha, her husband.

Elizabeth C. Moore wrote to say that her deceased husband was a descendant of Andrew Johnson Hickman and that she had a picture of him in the family album.

James Elliott Hickman (1801-1887) and Arthur Hickman (1813-1887) seem to have been the same person, but I cannot find any record of them. I have a letter from James Elliott Hickman (1801-1887) dated 1837, in which he mentions that he is a descendant of Andrew Johnson Hickman and that he has a picture of him in the family album.

The eldest son of William F. Hickman, James Brown Hickman (1848-1908), also went to Antelope County, Nebraska, sometime after his first wife had died in Virginia, and maybe after he had married a second time in Iowa. That wife also died, and James married a third time in Nebraska. In all, he had seven children, four of whom were born in Virginia, and one or two in Nebraska. James Brown Hickman, as did his brother, made several trips back to Virginia to visit his mother and siblings. At the time of his death in 1908, he was said to have lived near Brunswick, Nebraska, for 29 years.

5. James Brown Hickman (18/XII/1848-28/V/1908) married 1875 to Florence "Fannie" J. Sneed (14/V/1857-19/X/1878)
5. the lived with his sister, Kate L. Brown, in Pulaski Co., at 1880 census
- married 21/VII/1880 to Sadie Cole (3/IV/1851-23/IX/1883)
- married 4/VII/1885 to Martha E. Van Eaton (1858-1920)
- they married and died in Antelope Co., Nebr.
6. son Hickman (2-?)
6. daughter Hickman (2-?)
6. George H. Hickman (23/XI/1877-28/V/1923) born in Pulaski Co., died in Florida, buried in Richmond, Va.
6. Sadie Hickman (1881-1925) married 1890 to Harry (Harold?) Reads (1868-1925) she was born in Pulaski Co., Nebr.
6. son Hickman (2-?)
6. Mollie Hickman (2-?) married 11/V/1915 to Raymond Van Patten (11/VIII/1878-8/VII/1950)
6. son Hickman (2/XI/1850-29/II/1862)—may have died from chorea (St. Vitus dance)—
5. William White Hickman (31/XI/1852-9/XI/1854) —died of flu & whooping cough—

A third offspring of William F. Hickman also made the trip to Nebraska; his eldest daughter, Mary Crockett Hickman (1846-1917) who married William A. Chumbley (1841-1917) in about 1866. They had 11 children, two of whom —twin girls Mary C. and Margaret R.— were born in Nebraska in 1881. George Cooley has a photo of Mary C. Chumbley and her first cousin, William John Hickman, taken in 1899 but I do not know whether it was taken in Virginia or Nebraska. The twin girls were married in Pulaski County, Virginia —Katie in 1907 to W. J. Lucas, and Mary in 1908 to Jesse McC. Miller. Apparently their parents had not found what they were looking for in Nebraska and returned to Virginia with the children. I suspect that there will be little more to learn of William F. and his wife and children, but I know there is still much to find concerning the lives of some of his siblings.

Hickmans of Back Creek

mythical cotton and tobacco plantation near Richmond, Virginia, in the 19th century. Unfortunately, she had no stories about how the Hickmans got to Nebraska, and why John Hoge Hickman's nieces returned to Virginia to marry.

Vivien lives in Seattle, Ron near Denver, and Randy is in Harrisonburg, Virginia, not very far from where his great-great-great-grandfather was born and raised on Back Creek. Randy has provided more current data to help fill in down to the 10th generation on my Hickman Family Tree. That list of the descendants of Arthur Hickman (1712/13-1779) has grown to 28 pages—and thousands of names—now.

From these sources I was able to add the following information about the descendants of William P. Hickman and John Hoge Hickman that, sadly, show the gradual loss of the Hickman surname so that few of the living descendants of the Rev. William P. Hickman carry his name:

5. John Hoge Hickman (9/III/1855-19/VIII/1935) married 8/III/1877 to Maggie Jane McCartney (15/IV/1860-16/III/1941) both married and died in Neligh, Nebr.

It would be wonderful to have similar autobiographies by even the grand-lives of the other Hickmans of Back Creek but none of William Taylor's uncles or cousins authored such helpful books. Some, however, were great writers of letters and have been fortunate to round up hundreds of their letters and other documents.

Those of you who have been reading these newsletters know that I am trying to trace down the descendants of my great-grandfather's siblings to find additional old letters and stories. I have been successful in finding many descendants, some old photos, a few stories and anecdotes, but no more old letters.

A primary goal of that search has been the children left by the Rev. William P. Hickman after his death in the Civil War in 1864. I am delighted to have heard from four of the descendants of John Hoge Hickman (1855-1935), one of William P.'s sons. It seems that he left Pulaski County, Virginia, and went to Antelope County, Nebraska, in the mid 1870's. There he worked as a printer's helper at a newspaper, in a photography studio, and as a "bull whacker" driving freight wagons before buying land and devoting his attention to farming.
He married Maggie Jane McCartney (1860-1941) in 1877 and they had six or seven children.

One son of Hoge and Maggie, William John Hickman (1880-1949), left Nebraska during the Dust Bowl crisis in 1934 and took his family to the Willamette Valley of Oregon. His grandson, George R. Cooley (1932-), now lives in North Carolina and he has sent copies of obituaries, stories, and photos that help immensely in filling out the history of William P.
Hickman's family.

Three children of John Hoge Hickman (1855-1935) born in Nebraska, with spouses in 1941
Margaret Jane Hickman (1887-1960), Edith Elizabeth Davis (1892-1983), Miranda Bird Hickman (1885-1956)
Harry C. Frady (1884-1929), William John Hickman (1880-1949), George Edward Emerick (1882-1958)

The rest of the children of Hoge and Maggie Hickman remained in Nebraska with their spouses and children. A daughter, Miranda Bird Hickman (1885-1956), married George Edward Emerick (1882-1958) and they had three daughters. I have heard from one of those daughters, Vivien Armista Emerick Yates Dodson (1907-) and two of her grandsons, Randy L.
Mitchell (1954-) and Ronald P. Mitchell (1953-). Some years ago Vivien compiled a history of her Emerick and Hickman ancestors that tells of their lives in Nebraska. In it she had copies of photos of Margaret Hoge Hickman (1821-1904), her son John Hoge Hickman (1855-1935) in his first car, his wife Maggie Jane McCartney Hickman (1860-1941), and their daughter Miranda Bird Hickman (1885-1956), as well as later descendants. I am afraid, however, that Vivien had a highly romanticized idea of her great-grandfather and his family life on a

Hickman Family History Newsletter

Box 520
Florence, MT 59833
July 10, 1996

Dear Hickman cousins:

My great-great-great-grandfather was Arthur Hickman (1712/13-1779) who acquired land at the headwaters of the James River in Augusta County, Virginia, in the mid-1700's when Virginia extended to the Mississippi River and the Great Lakes. Arthur may not actually have lived on his Back Creek property because he had other interests along the Potomac River, but his will left the Back Creek lands to a daughter, Betty Hickman (?-?), and a son, Roger Hickman (1740?-1827), who was my great-great-great-grandfather. Another of Arthur Hickman's sons, Sotha Hickman (1748-??), moved further west and settled on Elk Creek in what would become Monongalia County, Virginia.

Roger Hickman had four children and two of those inherited the lands on Back Creek in what had by then become Bath County, Virginia. One son, William Hickman (1770-1843), had nine children. It was some of those children of William Hickman that wrote the letters, and saved the papers, that are the basis for my history of the Hickmans of Back Creek. They were passed down to my grandfather and then to my mother, uncles, and aunt who entrusted the treasure to me.

1. Arthur Hickman (1712/13-1779)

2. William Hickman (ca.1746-ca.1808) married ca.1773 to Jean Fletchall (ca.1751-ca.1781) married 29/VII/1781 to Nancy "Ann" Lucas (ca.1765-?)
3. Sotha Hickman (1748-??) married (?) to Elizabeth Davies, moved to Elk Creek ca.1771
2. Betty Hickman (?-?) married (?) James Ellis (?-?) she inherited 1/2 Arthur's property on Back Creek
2. Roger Hickman (1740?-1827) married (?) Margaret Davis (?-?) he inherited 1/2 Arthur's Back Creek property
3. Mary Hickman (?-?) married 6/V/1794 to John Dunlap (?-?) of Rockbridge County, Va.
3. James M. Hickman (?-1851) married 1795 to Margaret Bird (?-?) he inherited 1/2 Roger's Back Cr. property
3. John B. Hickman (?-?)
3. William Hickman (1770-1843) married 1799 to Mary Elliott (1771-1842) he inherited 1/2 Roger's property
4. Martha Elliott "Patsy" Hickman (1800-1875) married 1820 to Stuart Taylor (1796-1874)
5. William Taylor (1821-1902) married 1846 to Isabelle Anne Kimberlin (?->1902?)
4. Jane Elliott Hickman (1802-ca.1841) married 1818 to William Bradshaw (?-1850)
4. Arthur Hickman (1803-1884) married 1827 to Rebecca Walker (1806-1879) in 1848 bought 540 A. on Glade Cr., Nicholas Co., Va.
4. James Elliott Hickman (1804-1885?) married 1830 to Elizabeth E. Hamilton (1812-ca.1857) later moved to Nicholas Co., Va.
4. Huldah Shallom Hickman (1806-1888) married 1828 to Isaac Callison (1804-1880) moved to Vermilion & Fulton Co., Ill.
4. Mary Hickman (15/II/1808-23/III/1816)
4. William P. Hickman (1810-1864) married 1843 to Margaret R. Hoge (1821-1904) killed in Civil War
4. Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880) married 1834 to Delilah S. Armentrout (?-1837)
- married 7/XI/1837 to Nancy Wallace (1813-?) he is buried near Persinger, W. Va.
4. Roger Hickman (1813-1889) married 1838 to Martha Ann Lockridge (1816-1843) he was William's heir
- married 1846 to Margaret Brown Campbell (1824-1862)
- married 1864 to Rebecca Ann Lowry (1835-1896)
5. Peter Lightner Hickman (1858-1937) married 1895 to Ollie Gertrude Lockridge (1870-1965)
6. Ruth Gertrude Hickman (1908-) married 1935 to Herman William Gabriel Jr. (1910-1972)
7. Herman William Gabriel III (1933-) that is me, your newsletter editor

William Taylor was the author of 16 books one of which, Story of My Life, is still in print 100 years after its first printing. In it he tells of his parents, his uncles and aunts, and his grandfather William on Back Creek. It is a good description of life there as he remembered it fifty years later and it is worth reading. What I am seeing in my search for old Hickman stories that they have accepted as "the word" on their ancestors. A couple decades ago it was popular to quote passages, taken out of context, from Story of My Life. Fortunately, I have an original 1891 copy of that 750 page autobiography, as well as letters written by William Taylor, his brother and their father and mother to my great-grandfather, Roger Hickman (1813-1889).

Hickmans of Back Creek

Isaac Callison (1804-1883) & Huldah Shattum Hickman (1806-1887)

Grace Custer Ebnetter, in Georgia, sent photos of her great-grandfather, Hamilton Burton Hickman (1857-1926), her grandfather, Russell Murray Hickman (1895-1954), and others, as well as some letters written by Russell Murray Hickman during his service in the army in WWI. Then her cousin, Brenda Hickman in West Virginia, sent me a better photo of Hamilton Burton Hickman and more family tree data, but I will have to save their contributions for the next newsletter.

After reading the latest draft of Back Creek, Marian Hoge MacKenzie reminded me that Arthur Hickman (1712/13-1779) had, indeed, lived briefly on Back Creek, and that his will stated:

"I give and bequeath forever to my son Rights the half of a track of land that lies on the westernmost fork of James River which goes by the name of Back Creek ...

I give and bequeath forever to my daughter Betty the other half of same track of land above mentioned on Back Creek which the whole track contains two hundred acres and is marked through the middle by a row of marked trees I marked myself ..."

For this, and other reasons, I hope that no one is treating these drafts as gospel. If you have made copies of some pages, despite the © notice and the Do Not Copy watermark, please throw them away. When everything is sorted out, reviewed, edited, and printed will be the time to consider the data to be reliable. At least, I hope they will be much more accurate than the usual "family history" by then.

Read notes and keep the good stuff coming this way.

Bill Gabriel

I have nine letters written by Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880) from 1833 to 1850. His brother Roger on Back Creek. Andrew moved several times and he was several times in Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties before settling down in Hinchey County. He had two wives and nine children. However, I have lost track of his descendants and I have no record of his grandchildren or great-grandchildren.

Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880)

I have similarly lost track of his brother Arthur Hickman (1803-1884) and Arthur's son, William W. Hickman (1828-), even though I have three letters written by them in 1850.

Another suspect source of data is the dates taken from gravestones — a sometimes unreliable source of dates because some of the stones were inscribed and placed long after the deaths of the people named, and some inscriptions were composed out of memory rather than reference to written records.

An example is the grave of Huldah Shallum Hickman (1806-1887) who married Isaac Callison (1804-1883) in Virginia and moved to Illinois in 1834. About 1880 they moved to Iowa to live with their children. Huldah's great-grandchildren in California sent me a considerable amount of material (clippings, photos, letters, etc.) on Huldah's family, and said that she had died on 26 October 1880. However, I have six letters that she wrote "home" to her brother Roger Hickman on Back Creek from 1855 to 1886. Her great-grandchildren took the date of death from her gravestone and it is certainly in error.

Hickmans of Back Creek

Roger Hickman's second wife was Margaret Brown Campbell from Highland County, and she was my great-grandmother. A partial list of their descendants follows.

4. Roger Hickman (1813-1889) first married 1838 to Martha Ann Lockridge second married 1846 to Margaret Brown Campbell (4/X/1824-16/V/1862)
5. Martha Ellen Hickman (4/III/1847-31/I/1861) —died young—
5. Virginia Alice Hickman (13/V/1848-1933) married 1890 to Joseph Ervine Hamilton (1842-?)
5. Thomas Brown Hickman (1/XI/1849-21/I/1928) married 22/XII/1881 Mary W. Payne (1846-1898)
5. James Elliot Hickman (30/I/1851-1861) —died when in teens—
5. Emma Susan Sabina Hickman (15/XII/1852-10/III/1919) married (?) to James W. Bulger (21/XII/1852-1935)
5. Matilda Margaret Hickman (24/VII/1854-29/VII/1935) married 1873 to Charles Isaac Hepler (1851-1925)
5. Laura Eugenia Hickman (12/I/1856-27/IV/1888) —died of Bright's disease—
5. Peter Lightner Hickman (23/II/1858-20/IV/1937) married 1895 Ollie G. Lockridge (1870-1965)
6. Roger Lockridge Hickman (4/VII/1896-28/III/1979) married 1930 to Nellie C. Shaw (1907-1978)
6. Ollie Virginia Hickman (29/V/1902-) married 1927 to Warren M. Campbell (1/IV/1893-1974)
6. Clare Brown Hickman (12/I/1903-) married 1935 to Juanita Elizabeth Rohl (8/VIII/1909-)
7. Carolyn Brown Hickman (13/X/1837-) married 1961 to Gilbert Paris Bowman (26/VII/1936-)
7. Kathleen James "Jimmie" Hickman (27/X/1939-) married 1966 to Charles Earle Edwards (?)
6. Ruth Gertrude Hickman (16/I/1908-) married 1933 to Herman William Gabriel Jr. (1910-1972)
7. Herman William "Bill" Gabriel III (21/XII/1933-) unmarried
7. Henmar Ruskin Gabriel (31/I/1936-) married 10/VI/1961 to Jo Ann Overby (21/VII/1940-)
6. Julian Kenneth Hickman (6/VII/1911-20/X/1964) married 1937 to Neva Lee Martin (8/III/1910-)
7. Neva Martin Hickman (3/VII/1939-) married 1960 to Thomas Mudd (10/VII/1940)
7. Julian K. Hickman II (1945-) married 1964 to Ruth Bennett (?)
6. Harry Herman Hickman (5/XII/1914-) married 1939 to Ozella Howard Carpenter (2/III/1914-)
5. Andrew Johnson Hickman (5/XI/1861-31/XII/1862) —died in infancy—

The two smaller girls in the photo on page one are the daughters of my uncle, Clare Brown Hickman (1905-), who has many wonderful tales of people in Bath and Highland counties and has been a great help in the compilation of this family history. He lives in Staunton now, and a few weeks ago George Campbell Bird (1935-), from Highland County, sent me a clipping from the Staunton paper containing an article about people who get their exercise walking at the mall. It was illustrated with a photo of Clare B. Hickman who is now 90 years old.

Another cousin, Becky Gabriel McGann —from my father's family this time— sent an article from the Waynesboro paper containing an interview with, and photo of, Julian K. "Pete" Hickman II, whose father was once the Commonwealth's Attorney for Bath County and later a federal judge. Pete supervises the Virginia spinal chord injury program and was interviewed after the Christopher Reeve injury.

And, to top it off, the summer 1995 issue of ASMP Showcase (a quarterly from the American Society of Media Photographers) carried a profile of me and two pages of my photos.

There was another "Hickman" wedding this summer when Norma Jean Hepler Vaughan (1938-) married Robert Taylor, Sr. at the historic old Windy Cove Presbyterian Church near Millboro Springs in Bath County. She is the great-granddaughter of Matilda Margaret Hickman (1854-1835) and Charles Isaac Hepler (1851-1925). Norma Jean's grandfather was Forrest Frank Hepler (1884-1939) who had the first Ford dealership in Bath County, and who employed three or four of my uncles at various times in his auto businesses at Millboro and Mitcheltown.

The Windy Cove church was established in 1749 and was the first Presbyterian church in what would become Bath county in 1791. Tradition says that the early worshippers came armed and set a sentinel to warn of Indian attack.

Norma Jean's sister, Carol, told me that their uncle, James H. Hepler (1917-1995), had died this fall.

Peter Lighner Hickman & Ollie Gertrude Lockridge, 1895

The earliest typewritten letter in my collection of family papers is one written by Ollie G. Lockridge in Ohio to Peter L. Hickman at Sun Rise in 1895.

My grandfather was born on the ancestral farm on Back Creek in 1858 and among his playmates were Charles Lewis Robinson (1856-19??), John Anson Robinson (1858-192?), and Jesse Stuart Robinson (1861-192?), who were all born into slavery but remained on the Hickman farm after the late lamented war for nearly as long as my grandfather. When Peter L. Hickman went to Ohio to woo and wed Ollie in 1895, John Robinson ran the farm and sent him report of the crops and affairs of the valley. It was John's wife Martha who I mentioned in the July newsletter after I had found her gravestone in the old slave graveyard. Stuart was the last of the former slaves to live at Sun Rise on Back Creek, and he is the only one of whom I have a (very poor) photo. However, there are several photos of Susie Green, the daughter of slaves, who lived at the old home place until her death about 1928.

In trying to track down the descendants of two of Roger Hickman's brothers I have written to eleven of the county, regional, and state historical societies in West Virginia. Only three have even bothered to respond.

Elizabeth B. Wiseman, Greenbrier Historical Society, kindly sent me some information about Andrew J. Hickman (1811-1880), Arthur Hickman (1803-1884), and some the children of Andrew and of James Elliott Hickman (1804-1885). Unfortunately, the material started out by saying that the Hickmans were German, and that makes me suspicious of the accuracy of the rest of the stuff.

That is not the first time I have been — usually in "county histories" — a claim that the Hickmans were German, and it illustrates a practice among authors of such stuff to merely copy one another rather than using primary sources or doing their own research. Another myth passed around is that the Hickmans of Back Creek originated in Delaware, but they were English and were in Virginia by 1623 when "R. Hickman, Cl. Sec. off." signed the "Laws and Orders concluded on by the General Assembly, March the 5th, 1623-4." From such experiences, I now take "county history" and "family history" books and pamphlets with a grain of salt. They can help put people in certain places, but the stories and "facts" must be checked against better data.

Ed Brown found that the grave stone for his great-grandmother, Mary Angeline Wiley (1841-1891), has an incorrect date for her death — probably because it was not placed until 1906 following the death of her husband Lanty William Hickman.

I have 78 letters written by William P. Hickman to his brother Roger from 1832 to 1859 and they form a large part of my Hickman history manuscript. The materials from Joe McCoy add some details and color to that history. He has tried to find descendants of William P. Hickman still living in the area, but with no success so far. That seems strange, because there are many people in Pulaski and Wythe counties with the same surnames as William's grandchildren — maybe they are unaware of their "ancient ancestors."

Interestingly, many of the people mentioned in the material sent by Joe McCoy are Hoges. And some are ancestors of Marian Hoge MacKenzie so I sent her a copy of my transcription of the handwritten records.

John and Shirley Frey Morris checked in again with more information about our Scots-Irish Lockridge and Campbell connections. As many of you know, my great-grandfather, Roger Hickman (1813-1889), had three wives and eighteen children. His first wife was Martha Ann Lockridge (1816-1843), a daughter of Col. Lanty Lockridge of Pocahontas County. They had three children, and one of their many great-grandchildren is Edwin B. Brown.

Ed Brown's daughter, Martha Anne, was married this summer to John Edwin Russell. They had a big wedding at Ash Lawn, the former home of President James Monroe, in Albemarle County. Among the treasure of old Hickman papers are two land patents to William Hickman dated 14 August 1801 and signed by James Monroe when he was Governor of Virginia. They are now in the possession of Kent Rose in Maryland.

Then I got a nice letter from Patricia Shannon Huska, a California cousin of David Hickmans as turned up by her research in West Virginia. The following is a much shortened set of those new enclosed family group sheets and long lists of the descendants of the Bradshaws and Felling. She is the descendant of Nancy Bradshaw underlined on the previous list. Patricia

It turns out that David Poling is also related to the Peter Hull who sold "140 acres being part of a tract of 280 acres, lying on Back Creek a branch of Jackson's River" to Roger Hickman in 1796. It was on that tract that Roger's grandchildren were born. So, David Poling was able to help me sort them out and add data to family trees that I had started for them that lived on Back Creek in the 1700's and 1800's. that lived on Back Creek in the 1700's and 1800's. There were two lines of Hamiltons and he was able to help me sort them out and add data to family trees that I had started for them because they are mentioned in Hickman letters, wills, and deeds, and because they married Hickmans on Back Creek as follows:

- James Vance Hamilton (?-?) married Catherine Hickman (?-?) daughter of
- James M. Hickman (?-1851) and niece of William Hickman (1720-1843)
- Elizabeth F. "Betty" Hamilton (?-c.1857) married James Elliott Hickman (1804-c.1885)
- son of William Hamilton (1720-1843)
- Joseph Levine Hickman (1770-1843)
- son of William Hamilton (1742-?) married Alice Hickman (1848-1933)
- daughter of Roger Hickman (1813-1889)

Virginia Alice Hickman was in love with the neighbor boy, Joseph Hamilton, and when he went to California to make his fortune after the Civil War, she vowed to wait for his return. It was twenty six years before he returned to Back Creek, Virginia and for were married April 10, 1894, at the home of her sister, Emma Susan Sabina Hickman Bulger. She and the couple never had children I have five letters written by Joe Hamilton and Jennie Hickman from California from 1891 to 1916 to my grandfather on Back Creek

Joseph E. Hamilton (1842-?) & Virginia Alice Hickman (1848-1933)

Next came a package from the Rev. Joe McCoy of Belspring, Va., who is now the pastor of the church served by the Rev. William P. Hickman when he was killed in the Civil War. He sent me twenty years of records of his church, from the time of its founding in 1844 as the White Glade church, to 1851 when the name was changed to Bell Spring church, and then to 23 July 1864 when the Session minutes read:

"... the Rev. Mr. Blanton being present was invited to moderate the Session, members present A. G. Mathews Isaac Hudson A. Chumbley and J. M. Hoge (Elders) when Mrs Margaret M. Hickman and Miss Eliza J. Hickman were received on certificate from Blackshurg Church.

When the following paper was adopted in regard to the death of the Rev Wm P Hickman who fell (a martyr to his country and the cause of religion) mortally woundid on the 9th of May 1864 and died on the 11th.

"The Session of Bell Spring church in entering upon record an expression of there feelings & views upon the occasion of the death of there late pastor Rev Wm. P. Hickman would in the first place render thanks to God on behalf of the church & congregation that they were permitted for more than twenty years to sit under his ministry & to have him among them as a neighbor for the greater part of that time. We feel that not only the church has lost an able minister of the new Testament a workman that needith not to be ashamed and an uncommonly gifted expounder of the word of God but the Church at large which was just coming to appreciate his qualities as a minister & a man has sustained a loss not to be easily repaired. We would humbly submit to the will of our hevenly Father in this rare dispensation of his Providence and pray that we may be enabled to profit by it and to be more stired up to earnest

The photo was taken of us kids standing on a rock wall and rock fireplace base, by my father (but that is another story) in the yard of my grandmother's farm on Back Creek. I always knew the place as Sun Rise, but after I began writing this history I realized Sun Rise was the name of the farm, but the name of a locality and its post office.

The postmaster of the Sun Rise post office from 1902 to 1936 was my grandmother, Ollie Gertrude Lockridge Hickman (1870-1965), and it did business through the dining room window of her home. Before that her sister, Minnie Herman Lockridge Gwin, was the Sun Rise postmaster from 1890 to 1902 and the post office must have been in her home down the creek a bit. From 1850 to 1888 the postmaster was Laura Eugenia Hickman (1850-1898), a sickly woman who never married and who died of Bright's disease. She was succeeded by her step-mother, Rebecca Ann Lowry Hickman (1835-1896), the third wife of my great-grandfather, Roger Hickman (1813-1889), and during their tenure the Sun Rise post office was at the Hickman ancestral home place a mile down the creek from what I had known as "Sun Rise" as a child.

Howard William "Bud" Wilt (1931-1989) and Lorelei Loraine Wilt (1933-1994) in the photo were the children of Minnie Lee Hepler (1908-1987). Lorelei married Andrew Allen Peterson (2-7) and he works for Boeing in Pennsylvania. Last month I had a phone call from David R. Poling who happens to work with Andy Peterson. They had been talking about my family history and it turned out that Dave Poling is a descendant of Gottlieb Hartman who came to Pennsylvania in the 1700's. Gottlieb's son William Hartman was one of the "Pennsylvania Dutch" settlers in the mountains of Virginia, and he married Sophia Creek, from another German family that is also related to my (English) Hickmans and (Scotts-Irish) Lockridges. William Hartman and Sophia had a son, Isaac Vernon Hartman, who married Nancy Bradshaw (1819-1864). They are buried in a Hartman family cemetery near Green Bank, Pocahontas County, W.Va.

Nancy Bradshaw was a favorite niece of the second Roger Hickman (1813-1889) and his brother William P. Hickman (1810-1864) who mentioned her in many of his letters. All I had known about Nancy's place in the family tree had come from the will of her grandfather and some letters from her uncles and aunt, as follows:

2. Roger Hickman (1791/1740-1827) married (?) Margaret Davis (?) moved to Back Creek
3. William Hickman (5/VI/1770-25/X/1843) married 1799 to Mary Elliott (1/IV/1771-18/X/1842)
4. Jane Elliott Hickman (27/I/1802-ca.1841) married 2/VI/1818 to William Bradshaw (?-?) who had been a soldier in the War of 1812
5. Nancy Bradshaw (1819-?) married 13/X/1838 to Isaac Hartman (?-?)
6. child
5. Matilda M. Bradshaw (?-?)
5. 6 sisters and 1 brother not otherwise named in the will of William Hickman in 1841

David Poling added the following information about Nancy Bradshaw and her descendants on the family tree:

4. Jane Elliott Hickman (27/I/1802-ca.1841) married 2/VI/1818 to William Bradshaw (?-1850) who had been a soldier in War of 1812

6. Huldah Jane Hartman (25/VII/1839-?) married 20/IX/1870 to Lorenzo Humphreys (?-?)
6. Sophiah Susan Hartman (13/II/1841-?) married 1865 to Benjamin Franklin Potts (?-?)

Hickman Family History Newsletter

Box 520
Florence, MT 59833
October 30, 1995

Dear Hickman cousins:

I have been working on the history of the Hickmans of Back Creek for some five years now, beginning with the six file drawers of old family letters, deeds, photos, etc. that I inherited and then adding the letters and other documents collected in the past two years. There are now three volumes totaling about 1,400 pages in draft form in my computer. In September I printed a draft of the first 300+ pages that take the Hickmans from about 1770 to about 1890 and sent it out to several people for a critical review of the content. That is the third draft version of that portion of the history and is a radical revision from what some of you had read in the earlier drafts.

Revisions are a result of new information, and/or a new interpretation of old data. As various people send me "stuff" I get to know our ancestors better and have a clearer idea of who they were, who their neighbors were, how they lived, and how they fit into the history of our country. The information about Hickmans of yore keeps trickling in from the most unexpected places, and I will use the following photo to illustrate that point.

RICHMOND TIMES-DISPATCH

HARDY

Ruth Hickman Gabriel Hardy of Richmond died January 2, 1997, just a few days before her 89th birthday. Born at Sun Rise near Warm Springs in Bath County, Va. on January 16, 1908, Ruth was one of seven children of Peter L. and Ollie L. Hickman. She attended one-room schools in Bath County for her grammar school education. In order to attend high school, Ruth moved to Milboro where she lived with her two younger brothers in a small rented house. There, Ruth did the cooking, cleaning, and chauffeuring until she graduated. One of Ruth's fondest memories was of being the sole graduate of Milboro High in 1927. Her situation made the newspapers from coast to coast because M. L. Conib of Richmond, the supervisor of the research division of the Virginia State Board of Education, traveled 196 miles to address the graduating class of one. Ruth married Herman W. Gabriel Jr. in 1933 in Richmond and they had two sons. She entered the insurance business with the local firm of Muhleman & Kayhoe in 1941. At a time when few women held such positions, Ruth H. Gabriel became well known in the field and was an officer in the firm before she retired in 1969. Ruth H. Gabriel and Edward I. Hardy were married in 1969 and she acquired a new set of children and grandchildren to delight and entertain her. Ed preceded Ruth in death in 1975. Ruth Gabriel Hardy had lived at The Hermitage since 1987. Survivors include two sons, Herman W. Gabriel III, Montana, and Henmar R. Gabriel, Texas; a stepson, Edward I. Hardy Jr., Richmond; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Richard M. Lewis, North Carolina and Mrs. William E. Welsh, Ohio; twelve grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. She is also survived by two of her six brothers and sisters: Clare B. Hickman, Staunton, and Harry H. Hickman, Tenn. Her remains rest at the Bliley Funeral Home's Central Chapel, 3801 August Ave. where the family will receive friends 2 to 4 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. Sunday. Graveside services will be conducted 11 a.m. Monday in Westhampton Memorial Park. Memorial contributions may be made to The Hermitage Home in her name.

Hickmans of Back Creek

The Rev. Joe McCoy sent some more church records from which I have extracted the following partial chronology of mentions of the family of William P. Hickman, after his death, in the minutes of the Session of the Bell Spring Presbyterian Church, Pulaski County, Virginia.

- 25 May 1875
Ruling Elder ...Andrew J. Hickman of Nicholas W. Va. being present, were invited to sit as corresponding members. [Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880) brother of William P. Hickman, I have nine letters written by him between 1833 and 1855 from Greenbrier and Nicholas counties, then contact was lost. Here he is 20 years later in Pulaski County, and maybe staying at the home of his sister-in-law.]
- 6 October 1875
A. J. Hickman, a ruling elder from Nicholas Co. W. Va, residing in this neighborhood, & being present, was invited to sit with us whenever present as a corresponding member, while he remains in this community....
Session then adjourned to meet at the House of Mrs. M. R. Hickman on the 25th day of Dec....[she was the widow of the Rev. William P. Hickman]
- 25 December 1875
House of Mrs. M. R. Hickman, ...
Mrs. Florence J. Hickman, wife of James B. Hickman, was, on certificate of membership & dismission from the Grace Street Baptist Church, Richmond, Va., admitted to the communion & fellowship of this church. [Florence J. "Fannie" Sneade (1857-1878?) married to James Brown Hickman in Richmond, Va., on 27 January 1875 by the Rev. Moses D. Hoge]
- 13 December 1879
Deacons ... absent Wm. A. Chumbley (having removed to Nebraska with his family).
- 26 November 1882
On application of Wm. A. Chumbley, a Deacon in this church & Mary C. his wife, they were, at their own request, with their baptized children as follows, Harper, Eliza H. C., Frederick dismissed to unite with the Central Park Presbyterian Church to be organized in Nebraska, [they had children named William Harper (1867-1927), Edgar (?-?), Susie (?-?), Emma S. (ca.1873-?), Elizabeth Bessie (1874-?), Frederick (1877-1947) before leaving Virginia.]
- 9 December 1883
Mrs. Florence B. Hickman & her two baptized children, George & Charles Lewis, were at her own request, dismissed to unite with the 2nd Church, Richmond, (Dr. M. D. Hoge's.) [James and Florence had, as far as I know, three children identified as son, daughter, George H. (1877-1923), however this entry is a great mystery because one of William P. Hickman's descendants told me she died in 1878. James B. Hickman is reported to have taken another wife in 1880 in Iowa, and a third in 1885 in Nebraska.]
- 4 April 1891
The following named were ordered to be placed on the retired list....J.B. Hickman,... [he was living in Nebraska, and died there in 1908, but the Bell Spring church had lost track of him]

This makes me wonder if James Brown Hickman abandoned his wife and children, or if they were divorced, before he went west and acquired two more wives and additional children. I have not been able to find a death certificate for Florence or a divorce decree, but something may eventually turn up.

James Brown Hickman may be a black sheep, but he was not the only one in the family, and sometimes they add spice to the tale. We should not hide the stories of those ancestors whose conduct or accomplishments do not "measure up," but I have found old letters suggesting that those compiling the family history do exactly that to "avoid embarrassment." I hope that none of you are hiding black sheep from the rest of the flock.

Hickmans of Back Creek

Another mystery in the history of this family is why there are no letters from some of the siblings and children of the second Roger Hickman (1813-1889). The following list of names shows the number of letters that I have found that were written by the Hickmans of Back Creek and their children.

Number of letters found from the various Hickmans

3. William Hickman (1770-1843)	0
4. Martha Elliott "Patsy" Hickman (1800-1875)	1 and 1 from her husband
5. William H. Taylor (1812-1902)	1 and two books he authored
5. Archibald Taylor (1830-?)	2
4. Jane Elliott Hickman (1802-ca.1841)	0
4. Arthur Hickman (1803-1884)	1
5. William W. Hickman (1828-?)	2
4. James Elliott Hickman (1804-1885)	0
5. Hamilton Burton Hickman (1857-1926)	0
6. John M. Hickman (1881-1942)	2
6. Russell Murray Hickman (1895-1954)	2
4. Huldah Shallum Hickman (1806-1888)	5 and 1 from her husband
5. Minda Ann Callison (c.1933)	1
6. Mahle Edith Bond (1889-1967)	3 written for her by Anna M. McGinnis
4. William P. Hickman (1810-1864)	78
4. Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880)	9
4. Roger Hickman (1813-1889)	5
5. Lanty William Hickman (1838-1906)	1
6. Mattie Lockridge "Lockie" Hickman (1879-1967)	3
7. Frank Edwin Mower (1899-1956)	19
7. Donald Roger Mower (1910-1964)	3
5. Mary Elizabeth "Lizzie" Hickman (1840-1909)	6
5. Virginia Alice "Jennie" Hickman (1848-1933)	3 and 2 from her husband
5. Thomas Brown Hickman (1849-1928)	0
6. Sallie Dawson Hickman (1885-1978)	1
6. Mary Brown "Brownie" Hickman (1887-1975)	11
5. Emma Susan Sabina Hickman (1852-1919)	3 and 3 from her husband
5. Matilda Margaret Hickman (1854-1935)	0
5. Peter Lightner "Petie" Hickman (1858-1937)	2, but many from his wife
5. Robert Sidney Hickman (ca.1872-1954)	1

There are several things strange about this list. The most obvious is that there are no letters from Jane Elliott Hickman, James Elliott Hickman, or their children. I wonder if they did not write to their brother Roger at the ancestral home, or if they wrote but he did not save their letters. In either case, the question is why? Was there some reason for ill feelings and lack of correspondence?

Another question is why there are no letters from the children of William P. Hickman (1810-1864) and Andrew Johnson Hickman (1811-1880). Those two men accounted for the largest volume of surviving correspondence, and there is evidence that Andrew lived in Pulaski County with William's survivors in 1875 and that William P. Hickman's children had some contact with Roger on Back Creek into the 1880's. If they wrote to Back Creek the letters have been lost.

There are few surviving letters written by the second Roger or his son Peter Lightner Hickman, largely because they were the ones saving the correspondence and they could hardly save their own letters —although Roger managed to do a bit of that by asking his brother and his daughter to return letters to him. I had hoped, when I started this project, to find some of Roger's letters to his siblings squirreled away somewhere in the family papers of one of their descendants, but nothing has turned up.

Roger and Peter were both justices of the Bath County Court, ruling elders in the Presbyterian church, and farmers who should have had reasons to correspond with a variety of persons outside the family. It would be nice to find some of those letters also. Thomas Brown Hickman and Robert Sidney Hickman were also in business and Robert, in particular, should have left a long paper trail in his capacity as the manager of the Peckham Supply Co., the large "company store" in Cam, W. Va., and as a justice of the Peckham County Court.

about where Lanty's company was at various times during the war that there could be a chapter in the Hickman history on just that topic

Lanty William Hickman (1838-1906), Confederate States Army
son of Roger Hickman (1813-1889) and Martha Ann Lockridge (1816-1843)

Lanty had two cousins in the Confederate Army —William Bradshaw Hartman (1843-1920) and Peter Newton Hartman (1845-1923), grandchildren of his aunt, Jane Elliott Hickman and William Bradshaw. Both served in Co. F, 19th Virginia Cavalry, CSA, and William B. Hartman received a leg injury. A first-cousin, Archibald Hickman (1845-1912) son of James Elliott Hickman and Betsey Hamilton, may have served as a private in Co. D, 22nd Virginia Infantry, CSA, but the scanty info I have is not clear. Can any of you help fill in their histories?

George Cline Bond (1920-) kindly sent me copies of the service records of two sons of Huldah Shallum Hickman who were soldiers in the Union Army. The first to enlist was Woods B. Callison (1838-1925) who joined Company G, 50th Illinois Infantry Regiment on 24 September 1861 at Quincy, Illinois. At his time of enlistment Woods was 5 feet 6 1/2 inches tall, weight 150 pounds, had gray eyes, and gave his occupation as farmer. He served three years as a sergeant and was discharged on 27 September 1865 in Rome, Georgia. I wonder if he was with Sherman on his march through Georgia?

Victor Lesure Callison, (1844-1921) enlisted in Company I, 72nd Illinois Volunteer Infantry Regiment at Chicago, Illinois, on 14 August 1862. He was 5 feet, 6 inches tall, with gray eyes and brown hair, and listed his occupation as farmer. Victor served with General U. S. Grant on the Mississippi River and was wounded at Vicksburg in June 1863. He lost the sight in his left eye and had impaired vision in the right. Victor L. served two more years and was discharged on 29 May 1865 in Washington, D.C. He later received a veteran's pension of $24 per month as an invalid.

He was only a private soldier, but a photo shows Victor L. Callison wearing the coat of an Union officer. It may have been a prop, because it was customary for the studio photographers of the time to keep clean officer-style coats for the use of anyone having their photos taken. Therefore, one cannot reliably determine the rank or organization of Civil War era soldiers from the way they were dressed in photos made in a studio.

Lanty W. Hickman was a first-cousin of the Callison brothers but, fortunately, they did not meet in battle.

Do any readers of this newsletter have other information about the military service of these, or other, Hickmans in the Civil War? If so, please send me a note on who, what, where, and when. Are there any other Civil War era photos of Hickmans?

I have been compiling the letters of Lanty W. Hickman, his daughter Mattie Lockridge Hickman (1879-1967) and two of her children — Frank Edwin Mower (1899-1956) and Donald Roger Mower (1910-1964)— telling something of how they became millionaires in the West Virginia hardwood lumber business. The Mowers owned the town of Cass, W.Va., with its sawmill, shops, and houses, and the Greenbrier, Cheat & Elk Railroad that are now within a state park. They also owned the town of Nallen, W.Va., with a sawmill, office, store, boarding house, and some forty dwellings. Mower also had sawmills at Dailey, Omar, Rupert and Marnet, W.Va., and an important portion of their business was exporting hardwood lumber to South America.

Mattie Lockridge Hickman Mower also had a farm, called "Frankholme," near Mint Spring, Va., and Frank Edwin Mower owned an estate near Charles Town, W.Va., called "Claymont Court," and another large farm near Deerfield, Va., that he called "Poca Dot Farms" (for Pocahontas Co. and his wife Dorothy).

Frank Edwin Mower had invested in The Hickman Producing Company which seems to have been an oil and gas company with wells in Oklahoma. Does anyone know anything about that company? From which Hickmans did it derive its name?

The second Keger's first son, Lanty William Hickman, was a cavalryman in Company F, 11th Virginia Cavalry Regiment, Confederate States Army. Lanty's great-grandson, Edwin Benedict Brown, is researching the history of the 11th Va. Cav. He tells me that it was part of the 1st Cavalry Division, transferred from Ashby's Cavalry and that he has found so much material help in solving this puzzle will be appreciated.

Lanty is not, from any information I have, an abbreviation of Lancelot, even though no letters or original documents using Lancelot, although there is one letter referring to Roger the 11th. So, where did the name come from? Was it Scottish? What did it mean? Where has it given?
